

Paul Heimowitz is the aquatic invasive species coordinator for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Pacific Region, which includes Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Hawaii. In that role, he helps develop regional and national policies and programs to enhance prevention, early detection, and control of biological invasions in freshwater and marine habitats. Prior to taking this position, Paul worked for 5 years on invasive species and other aquatic health issues as a Sea Grant Extension educator with Oregon State University, and also worked for 7 years on oil spill programs with the state of Washington. Originally from Arizona, Paul's invasion to the Pacific Northwest appears permanent.