WORKING SESSION

9:15 EMERGING THREATS IN CYBER SECURITY

Federal, State, and Private Sector partners discuss their strategy to foster partnerships for information sharing on the dynamic threat picture of cybersecurity. What information sharing mechanism is working best in their respective discipline? Where are the gaps when it comes to the cyber threat mitigation and where can the process be improved? The panel welcomes your questions and input to the discussion to help prevent the next cyber-attack on a business or infrastructure system. Moderated by: Eric Holdeman, Director, Center for Regional Disaster Resilience, PNWER

Randy Middlebrook, Protective Security Advisor, U.S. Department of Homeland Security

Brett Lloyd, Executive Director, Domestic Preparedness Assistance Center

Wendy Friedrich, Senior Intelligence Officer, Office of Intelligence and Analysis, U.S. Department of Homeland Security

Brigadier General Brad Richy, Director, Idaho Bureau of Homeland Security

Nathan Shoop, Physical Security Specialist/Information Security Audit, Zoot Enterprises, Inc.

10:45 DRONES, BODY CAMERAS AND THE LAW

This session will explore the efforts of the legislative and judicial systems to adjust privacy concepts to the "digital/metadate" age of communications. New technology solutions are being rapidly fielded. This session will explore the potential consequences of these developments on the need for use of UAVs [drones], body cameras, ALPRs [automated license plate readers] and other data collection technologies to be accompanied by laws and policies addressing privacy. An interactive workshop aimed at developing the outlines of such policies will be incorporated.
